WATTERSON ON THE SITUATION. Henry Watterson, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, now representing his district in congress, writes a stirring letter to his paper upon the political situation. He declares that while nothing has been done by the Democrats in congress in preparation for the countof the electoral vote on the 14th of February-while the members have been waiting for advisement from their constituents, waiting in vain, and growing more irresolute every day-the Republican conspirators, consisting of the President, Secretary Chandler, Secretary Taft, Senators Morton and Sherman, and the General of the Army, have constituted themselves into a close corporation, and propose "by a bold, defiant and lawless policy, to bring the senate to their heels and compel the people to choose between them and civil Mr. Watterson believes that there is peaceful manner by which the purpose of the conspirators may be thwarted and that the way is through "the right of petition, which, adequately presented and urged, becomes a power." He declares that "the Democrats do not include civil war in the list of their resources. Civil war is not a red-tape affair. It does not come in the regulation way. Nor is it likely to happen ever until all the peaceful methods for the redress of grievances have been exhausted. The Democratic party plants itself upon the law and the facts. It declares that the vote of no state shall be counted without the consent of both houses or Congress. No state vote has ever been or ought be. Since the foundation of the government to the present time, including the evidence furnished by the Republican leaders themselves, all authority sustains this position. On it the Democratic party plants it-'self and means to stand until it is driven off at the point of the bayonet. It 'is for our people to determine, there-'fore, whether this shall be done. If they will rise in their might, and, exercising the peaceful right of petition, will mem-'orialize the senate to do its duty, to do that which every Republican member of the senate is committed to. 'and will send a hundred thousand 'petitioners to Washington on the 14th of February to present the memorial in person, there will be no usurpation and no civil war. The conspirators will be thwarted. There will be Republicans enough in the senate to defeat them, and we shall have the presidential result settled by well established constitutional unethods. Otherwise those Republican senators who wish to do right, seeing that the country is going to submit, will

'which no man can see." To his own state Mr. Watterson addresses himself carnestly and particularly. The Democratic state convention meets on the 18th inst., and he abjures it to take ground firmly, not noisily, for the joint right of the two houses, fortified as it is by all precedent, and having memorialized the senate, to provide for the presence of at least ten thousand unarmed Kentuckians in Washington on the 14th of February. "So much," says Mr. Watterson, "supplemented as it will be by other states, will secure through civil agencies the peaceful settlement of the most dangerous issue that ever menaced the existence of a free govern-

VANDERBILT.

The life, character, habits, etc., of Commodore Vanderbilt, the deceased eighty-millionaire of New York city, are subjects occupying many columns of the daily newspapers at present. He as a peculiar man. He was born on taten Island, and began life as a deck and on his father's boat. He was mared at nineteen years of age. He tol wed "steamboating" in the employent of others until he was thirty-five ears of age, when, with a capital of sirty-five thousand dollars, he began to uild vessels of his own, and at one time ad thirty-eight running. He built sevnteen ocean-going steamers for his own se. In 1862 he presented to the governent the steamer Vanderbilt, valued at ght hundred thousand dollars. In 1857 he bought his first railroad stock, and from that year began the acquisition of one of the largest private fortunes in the world.

He had thirteen children by his first arriage. His wife died in 1867 and he married in 1868 a lady forty-five years counger than himself.

He was plain in his habits, but was fond of horses and cards, whist being his favorite game. He spent little money in books. Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress" was his favorite. He was uneducated, and his shortest notes displayed grammatical and orthographical errors. He never made a speech in his life and never voted but twice. He was plain in dress but had a particular tondness for white cravats. He was addicted to protanity and never made any attempt to correct the habit. He believed in the Bible and the divinity of Christ, and his favorite hymn was "There is rest for the weary." He never talked of his business in public, and once declared that the secret of his success was that "he never told what he was going to do until he had done it." He sometimes did business "on the street," but always paid money for everything he bought, and never sold anything he did not possess.

Gov. Nicholis was sworn into office in the Odd-Fellows' hall, in presence of five thousand people, there being twenty-five thousand in and about the building. Many ladles witnessed the inauguration ceremonies. Packard was inaugurated in the state house in the presence of a battallion of office holders, policemen guarding the entrances and a band of negro militia under arms being present. On Tuesday, Gov. Nicholis secured possession of the supreme court of the state and all the police stations of the city. For a time the excitement was in tense, and armed bodies of men were passing through the streets in all directions. The crisis passed without the firing of a gun, but peace is not yet assured, and an accidental shot may bring on a riot any time.

SENATOR WHITING, of Bureau county, has introduced into the general assembly a bill to regulate the applications for executive elemency. It proposes to provide for the appointment of a commission to be known as the board of pardons, and to consist of five members-the governor, the attorney-general, the president of the board of state commissioners of public charities and two others, one of which is to be appointed by the governor and the other by the supreme court. The board is to meet once in three months, and to hear evidence on applications for pardons from the penal and reformatory institutions of the state, and to be governed by the rules of equity instead of technical law. It is to assist and not to deprive the governor in his constitutional prerogatives.

THE periodical resurrection of John Wilkes Booth is effected this time by a correspondent writing from Green county, Pensylvania. This time Booth is an old man, affected with softening of the brain, who keeps constantly mutter ing "Sic semper tyrannus!"

THOS. HACKETT, a resident of Sedalia, Missouri, has laid a fitty dollar wager that he will eat thirty quails in thirty consecutive days. Hackett is described as a man in perfect health, full of spirits who does not quall before his task.

PRESIDENT GRANT has appointed Levi P. Luckey, his former private secretary and the friend and co-worker of Babcock. to be secretary of Utah territory. Thus is virtue rewarded.

RAILROAD fares from Chicago to the east are going up, and it is supposed will soon be at the figures they were before the fall of last summer.

THE Memphis Appeal wants to see Isham G. Harris elected to the United submit too, and we shall drift into a new States senate. The election takes place era of popular discontent, the end of next Tuesday.

OFFICIAL HISTORY OF THE

CENTEN'L EXHIBITION

The Little Rock

DICK & FITEGERALD, 18 Ann Street, New York

HORSE SHOER,

This great international Exhibition, designed to commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of American Independence, opened May 10th, and will close November 10th, 1876. All the nations of the world and all the states and territories of the Union are participating in this wenderful demonstration, bringing tegether the most comprehensive collection of art treasures, mechanical inventions, scientific discovereries, manufacturing achievements, mineral specimens, and agricultural products exer exhibited. The grounds devoted to the exhibition are situated on the line of the Pennsylvanis Railroad and embrace the acres of Fairmount Park, all highly improved and ornamented, on which are erected the largest buildings ever constructed—five of these covering an area of fity acres and coating $5,000.000. The total number of buildings erected for the purposes of the exhibition is near two hundred. During the thirts days immediately following the opening of the exhibition a million and a quarter of people visited it.

THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

THE GREAT TRUNK LINE

FAST MIL ROUTE OF THE U.S.

Is the mos, direct; convenient and economical way of reaching Philadelphia and this great Exhibition from all sections of the country. Its trains too and from Philadelphia will pass through a grand Centennial depot, which the company has creeted at the main entrance to the Exhibition grounds for the accommodation of passengers who wish to stop at or start from the humerous large hotels contiguous to this station and the Exhibition—a convenience of the greatest value to visitors, and afforded exclusively by the Pennsylvrnia Haiload, which is the only line running direct o the Centennial buildings. Excursion rains will a lass stop at the Encampment of he Patrons of Husbandry, at Eim Station on this road.

The rennsylvania Railroad is the grand est railway erganization in the world. It controls seven thousand miles of roadway, forming centinuous lines to Philadelphis, New York, Baitimore, and washington, over which luxurious day and night cars are run from Chicago, st. Louis, Louisville, cincinnati, Indianapolis, Columbus, Toledo, Claveland and Eric withous change.

Its main line is laid wite double and third tracks of heavy steel rails upon a deep bed of broken stone ballast, and its bridghs are all of iron or stone. Its passenger trains are equipped with every known imprevement for comfort and safety, and are run at faster speed for greater distances then the trains of any line on the continent. The company has largely increased its equipment for Cedtennial travel, and will be prepared to build in its own shops, at short motice sufficient to fully accommodate any any extra demand. The unequaled resources at the command of the company of the company guarantee the most perfect accommodations for all its patrons during the Centennial Exhibition.

The magameent scenery for which the Pannsylvania Railroad is so justly celebrated presents to the traveler over its periect roadway an ever-changing panorama of river mountain and landscape views unequaled in America.

The eating stations on this line are unsurpassed. Meal
